HISTORICAL NOTE

In expressing the wish “that there be named in the near future a special committee of experts entrusted with preparing the continuation of the work of the conference”, the first international conference on private air law, meeting in Paris from 26 October to 6 November 1925, laid the foundation of the international body which, for some twenty years, until the end of the second world war, was entrusted with the international codification of private air law. It was in May 1926 that the Comité International Technique d’Experts Juridiques Aériens, more widely known under its abbreviated name of CITEJA, was created at Paris. From 1926 until 1947, date of its dissolution, CITEJA held sixteen sessions and drew up the draft conventions which were to become:

- the Convention for the unification of certain rules relating to international carriage by air, signed at Warsaw on 12 October 1929;
- the Convention for the unification of certain rules relating to damage caused by aircraft to third parties on the surface, signed at Rome on 29 May 1933;
- the Convention for the unification of certain rules relating to the precautionary attachment of aircraft, signed at Rome on 29 May 1933;
- the Additional Protocol to the Convention for the unification of certain rules relating to damage caused by aircraft to third parties on the surface, signed at Brussels on 29 September 1938;
- the Convention for the unification of certain rules relating to assistance and salvage of aircraft or by aircraft at sea, signed at Brussels on 29 September 1938.

The International Civil Aviation Conference, held at Chicago from 1 November to 7 December 1944, recommended in a resolution appearing in its Final Act, “that the various governments represented at this International Civil Aviation Conference give consideration to the desirability of bringing about the resumption at the earliest possible date of the CITEJA sessions which were suspended because of the outbreak of war ...” and “that consideration also be given by the various governments to the desirability of co-ordinating the activities of CITEJA with those of the Provisional International Civil Aviation Organization and after it shall have come into existence, of the permanent International Civil Aviation Organization established pursuant to the Convention on International Civil Aviation drawn up at Chicago on December 7, 1944 ”.

As a result of this resolution, the CITEJA met in Paris and Cairo in 1946, but it was thought preferable to entrust the work of the CITEJA to a new international body created within ICAO. In May 1947, at Montreal, the CITEJA held its last session and the ICAO Assembly (First Session) instituted a Legal Committee, with broader powers than those of the CITEJA, which was charged, among other things, with resuming the work of the international codification of private air law. The same session of the Assembly likewise adopted a procedure for the approval of draft conventions. The Constitution of the Legal Committee was annexed to Resolution A1-46 and the procedure for the approval of draft conventions is the subject of Resolution A1-48.

The Constitution of the Legal Committee and the procedure for the approval of draft conventions adopted in 1947 were revised at the Seventh Session of the Assembly, held at Brighton from 15 June to 6 July 1953. The revised Constitution appears in Resolution A7-5 and the revised procedure for the approval of draft conventions appears in Resolution A39-11, Appendix B.

Since its institution in 1947, the Legal Committee has prepared drafts which led to the adoption of the following instruments:

Convention on the International Recognition of Rights in Aircraft, signed at Geneva on 19 June 1948;

Convention on Damage Caused by Foreign Aircraft to Third Parties on the Surface, signed at Rome on 7 October 1952;

Protocol to Amend the Convention for the Unification of Certain Rules Relating to International Carriage by Air Signed at Warsaw on 12 October 1929, done at The Hague on 28 September 1955;

A presiding officer may limit the time allowed to each speaker, unless the body concerned decides otherwise.

Rule 31

However, observers may make a motion or amendment provided that such motion or amendment is seconded by the Representatives of two States on the Committee.
- b) No motion may be withdrawn by its author if an amendment to it is under discussion or has been adopted.

Rule 32

Procedural Motions

Subject to the provision of Rule 31 a), any Representative on the Committee may move at any time the suspension or adjournment of the meeting, the adjournment of the debate on any question, the deferment of discussion of an item, or the closure of the debate on an item. After such a motion has been made and explained by its proposer, only one speaker shall normally be allowed to speak in opposition to it, and no further speeches shall be made in its support before a vote is taken. Additional speeches on such motion may be allowed at the discretion of the presiding officer, who shall decide the priority of recognition.

The following motions shall have priority over all other motions and shall be taken in the following order:

On request of any Representative on the Committee and unless the Committee decides otherwise, parts of a motion shall be voted on separately. The resulting motion shall then be put to a final vote in its entirety.

Rule 41

Voting on Amendments

Any amendment to a motion shall be voted on before a vote is taken on the motion. When two or more amendments are moved to a motion, the vote shall be taken on them in their order of remoteness from the original motion, commencing with the most remote. The presiding officer shall determine whether a proposed amendment is so related to the motion as to constitute a proper amendment thereto, or whether it must be considered as an alternative or substitute motion.

Rule 42

Voting on Alternative or Substitute Motions

Alternative or substitute motions shall, unless the meeting otherwise decides, be put to vote in the order in which they are presented, and after the disposal of the original motion to which they are alternative or in substitution. The presiding officer shall decide whether it is necessary to put such alternative or substitute motions to vote in the light of the vote on the original motions and any amendments thereto. This ruling may be reversed by a majority of votes cast.

Rule 43

Tie Vote

In the event of a tie vote, a second vote on the motion concerned shall be taken at the next meeting, unless the Committee decides that such second vote be taken during the meeting at which the tie vote took place.  - b) Any proposed amendment not included in the proposed agenda submitted pursuant to Rule 10 may be adopted only by a two-thirds vote of Contracting States duly represented at the session.

ORGANIZATION AND WORKING METHODS OF THE LEGAL COMMITTEE

Note.— At its Sixteenth Session, the Legal Committee considered it desirable that certain recommendations of the Assembly (Fifteenth Session) concerning the organization and working methods of the Committee as well as certain decisions of the Committee (Sixteenth Session) on the same subject be collected and made available to Members in a convenient form (for example, in a part of a booklet containing the Constitution and Rules of Procedure of the Legal Committee). These recommendations and decisions are set forth below.

a. RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE ASSEMBLY (Fifteenth Session)

Extract from the Report of the Legal Commission of the Assembly

(Fifteenth Session, Montreal 1965 — Doc 8517, A15-LE/10).*

1. Membership and seat of the Committee. The Commission unanimously decided that the Legal Committee should continue to remain open to representatives of all Contracting States and that there is no need to provide that the Committee would have a permanent seat in Montreal.
2. Sessions of the Committee. The Commission agrees that it is not necessary that the Legal Committee should hold permanent sessions. It did not adopt the recommendation of the Working Group that the Legal Committee should, if possible, meet twice a year instead of once a year as at present, whenever this is necessary in order for the Committee to keep its work up to date; it considered that this matter should be left for determination in accordance with the Committee's Rules of Procedure, which already permit more than one session per year to be held, if necessary.

* With new paragraph numbers.

3. Continuity of participation of delegates in work. The Commission proposes that the Assembly draw the attention of States to the desirability, in the interest of good progress in the work of the Legal Committee, of the participation by the same delegates, as far as possible, in all meetings concerning a specified question.*

4. Establishment of national groups or teams of lawyers. The Commission also proposes that the attention of States should be drawn to the practice followed in some States where national groups or teams of lawyers have been established for consideration of items on the agenda of the Legal Committee.*

5. Election of officers. The Legal Commission recommends that the Legal Committee should, instead of electing its Chairman and Vice-Chairmen at the beginning of a session of the Committee, elect these officers at the end of a session. The officers so elected would enter office immediately and hold office for the next two sessions.

6. Basic principles to be followed in the preparation of draft conventions. The Legal Commission examined with interest the various principles which the Working Group of the Council suggested be followed in the preparation of draft conventions (see A15-WP/23 LE/4, Attachment: C-WP/4160, paras. 8 and 14 (Recommendation (6))). It noted that some of these principles were in fact followed by the Legal Committee and that therefore it was unnecessary to direct the Committee to follow them. The Legal Commission found certain other of the principles suggested by the Working Group unacceptable on their merits or, in some cases, as being too rigid. Finally, the Legal Commission decided to refer to the following principles as being important and recommended that the Legal Committee continue to observe them:

* This proposal was brought to the attention of States in State Letter S 11/1-65/172, dated 7 September 1965.

 At its Sixteenth Session the Legal Committee amended Rule 6 of its Rules of Procedure accordingly. At its Thirty-Sixth Session the Legal Committee further amended Rule 6 to allow for automatic succession by a Vice-Chairman next in line to the vacant office for the unexpired portion of the term; where a vacant office cannot be filled by succession, the Rule would allow for the election of a Vice-Chairman at the end of the first session following the vacancy, to fill the vacant office for the unexpired portion of the term.

- 1) Draft conventions placed before the Legal Committee by Sub-Committees should be considered under the procedure found in Rule 28A of the Committee's Rules of Procedure.
- 2) At all stages of the study of a subject the Legal Committee should make full use of the resources of the Legal Bureau*.
- 3) Questionnaires should be used for the purpose of consulting States and international organizations, although they should be used sparingly.

7. Procedure for the preparation of draft conventions. The Legal Commission agreed that the procedure to be followed by the Legal Committee for the preparation of draft conventions should be as indicated in the statement set forth in Attachment A hereto, noting that this is the same as the existing procedure with some minor changes.

8. Informal consultations among members of the Legal Committee. The Legal Commission notes with approval the practice of informal consultations between members of the Legal Committee before, during and after each session of the Committee with a view to reconciling possible divergent interests and reducing the occasions of an impasse or the number of cases where the Committee might take decisions by a narrow majority.

9. Roles of the Chairman and Legal Bureau. The Legal Commission considers that the Chairman of the Legal Committee and the Legal Bureau should be given an increasingly active role in promoting progress of the work of the Legal Committee. (See, in particular, the following paragraphs.)

10. Roles of Chairman, Vice-Chairmen and Legal Bureau in informal consultations. The Legal Commission considers that the Chairman of the Legal Committee, or, in the event of his being unable to act, one of the Vice-Chairmen, should undertake informal consultations assisted by the Legal Bureau.

* Re-named the Legal Affairs and External Relations Bureau effective 14 November 2008.

11. Role of Legal Bureau during sessions of Legal Committee. The Legal Commission considers that the Legal Bureau should, at the request of the Chairman of the Legal Committee or of the Committee itself during a session, make suggestions (e.g., draft texts) for the solution of problems before the Committee.

12. Relationship between the Council and the Legal Committee. The Legal Commission considers that there should be no change in the relationship now existing between the Council and the Legal Committee as established by the existing Constitution of the Committee (Resolution A7-5).

b. DECISIONS OF LEGAL COMMITTEE
(Sixteenth Session)

Work Programme

The Committee decided:

“to continue the practice indicated by the Council in 1953 of dividing the general programme of work of the Committee into two parts, namely –

Part A (subjects of current study) and Part B (subjects on which no work should be undertaken unless and until a report had been submitted to the Council by the Secretary General or by the Chairman of the Committee indicating the need for such work and the Council had approved, or unless the Assembly or Council otherwise directed that active work should be undertaken).”*

* Doc 8704-LC/155, 22/9/67 — Summary of the Work of the Legal Committee during its Sixteenth Session, p. 21, or Doc 8787-LC/156-1 — Minutes of the Sixteenth Session of the Legal Committee, p. (xxix). (Note: Doc 8704 was incorporated into Doc 8787). During the 26th Session of the Assembly in 1986, the Legal Commission “reconfirmed the conclusions reached at the 23rd Session of the Assembly in 1980 that the General Work Programme in the legal field should include only problems of sufficient magnitude and practical importance requiring an urgent international action. In view of this criterion, the General Work Programme should not be divided into Parts A and B.” (Doc 9493, A26-LE, Report and Minutes of the Legal Commission, p. 8, paragraph 21:2)

Assessment of extent of agreement in regard to a draft convention

The Committee decided:

“that, in practice, each subcommittee established by the Committee to study a draft convention should, as far as practicable, include in its report an assessment of the measure of agreement reached and capable of being reached between States upon the problems under consideration, together with an expression of opinion whether the subject is ripe for study by the Legal Committee. If, in the opinion of the Chairman of the Legal Committee, any steps may have to be taken by the Council in connection with the report of a subcommittee before the next session of the Legal Committee, he will send that report as soon as possible to the Council together with such comments as he considers necessary or useful. The Committee did not consider that it was necessary to include such a statement as the foregoing in its Rules of Procedure;”*

ATTACHMENT A

PROCEDURE FOR THE PREPARATION OF DRAFT CONVENTIONS

1. As a first step, the Legal Bureau would continue, as at present, to collect documentation (national laws, case-law, doctrine, technical and economic information) in relation to subjects in Part A of the work programme of the Legal Committee. The Committee would then, with the aid of the Legal Bureau, prepare a summary of the essential problems on which a decision is required in order to facilitate the work of the Committee.

1.1 The next step would be for the Legal Committee to refer the subject for study either to a rapporteur or to a Sub-Committee, or to both, as the Committee considers appropriate.

1.1.1 Under Rule 12 of the Rules of Procedure of the Legal Committee, the number of members of a Sub-Committee is left for determination by the Committee or its Chairman, depending on whether the Sub-Committee is established during a session of the Committee, or between sessions. Although no change is recommended in Rule 12, it is, nevertheless, considered that the membership of a Sub-Committee should not be too large. The most important criterion to be applied in making appointments to a Sub-Committee is the contribution which a member can bring to the work of the Sub-Committee, although no doubt other considerations would be involved in such appointments, e.g., the achievement of geographical representation and linguistic distribution as well as the balancing of legal systems.

1.1.2 At this same stage (see paragraph 1.1 above), the Legal Bureau, or the rapporteur, if one is appointed, should prepare for the Sub-Committee and circulate to its members an analysis of the problems raised by the subject to be studied.

1.1.2.1 The rapporteur or the Sub-Committee may request, through the Secretary General, from States and international organizations views or other information on these problems.

1.1.3 The rapporteur or Sub-Committee would then prepare a report for submission to the Legal Committee. This report, as well as including a discussion of the subject under study, and, where appropriate, a draft convention, could raise questions for decision by the Committee.

1.1.4 The report so prepared would normally be circulated to Contracting States and international organizations and, if necessary, to representative bodies of ICAO for comment.

1.2 The next step would be for the Legal Committee to consider the report and draft convention which were prepared by the Sub-Committee and the comments which may have been received from States or other bodies.

1.2.1 The Legal Committee would, at this stage, refer back to the Sub-Committee, with an indication of the Committee's views, a text which required additional work by the Sub-Committee on a specific problem or problems or which, though appearing to have little chance of acceptance by States for the time being, nevertheless showed possibilities of successful completion in the future.

1.2.2 At the same time, if further views of the Contracting States and international organizations were required, they could be elicited by the Legal Committee, through the Secretary General, and placed before the Sub-Committee.

1.3 The final step would be for the Legal Committee to discuss the draft convention revised by the Sub-Committee.
